

TechSandBox Hires Military Veteran for Recently Funded V.E.T. Program Mass Tech Collaborative and MassDevelopment Funding Supports Vet-Led Tech Startups

TechSandBox, Inc. (September 22, 2016; Hopkinton, MA) – TechSandBox has announced the addition of Barry Rosenbloom of Hopkinton to the recently created Veteran Community Development Manager position.

Barry, who had previously served as a volunteer on the steering committee that researched the need for this type of program, stepped up to the plate to accelerate its launch. “His unique combination of business acumen, military service, and service as a volunteer to TechSandBox make him very familiar with what we’re all about, and made him the perfect choice,” said Barbara Finer, CEO of TechSandBox.

Barry has former Military service having received an Honorable Discharge from the U.S. Army, including combat infantry service with the 101st Airborne Div. Vietnam.

Barry brings over 30 years in corporate financial and operational management positions within the high tech industry. His business career in financial operations included high-tech Fortune 500 companies and start-up technology companies. As a Controller of global sales and service divisions his financial responsibility included business operations financial planning, accounting, and business analysis. He has served as an interim controller for several start-ups across a broad technology spectrum including software, R&D, manufacturing, and mobile advertising.

Barry earned an MBA from the Franklin W. Olin Graduate School of Business, Babson College and a BSBA in Finance from Suffolk University in Boston.

Mr. Rosenbloom is active in the community, serving the region and his town. His activities include leading the TechSandBox CleanTech/Energy Steering Committee, Mentor Committee, and serving on the Board of Advisors and Veterans Program Steering Committee. He has been serving the Town of Hopkinton MA on the Upper Charles Trail Committee, Pratt Farm Master Plan Team and is on the Hopkinton Area Land Trust Board of Directors.
